Dear Chris:

The arrival today of a fine group of photographs of General Nassiri's recent visit to NASA reminds me how tardy I have been in thanking you in writing for your very kind help on that occasion. Not only was our guest overwhelmed by this exposure to American technology in its highest form, but the fact that he was received and escorted by Captain Evans personally--and on a Sunday to boot--made the event all the more appreciated by him.

Please extend my personal thanks to your Public Relations Officer, Ed Barker, for his effort on that occasion.

Warm regards,

/s/ George Bush

P.S. It was good talking to you on the phone last week.
